executed and/or that Claimant has possession of the original thereof." [10-19817-MLB, #510, p2]

4. The promissory note was properly executed electronically. In addition to the properly executed promissory note, I also provided electronic evidence of the bank transfer. The Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (ESIGN, Pub.L 106-229, 114 Stat. 464) is federal law passed by the U.S. Congress to facilitate the use of electronic records and signatures by ensuring the validity and legal effect of contracts entered into electronically. The general intent of the ESIGN Act is spelled out in the very first section(101.a), that a contract or signature "may not be denied legal effect, validity, or enforceability solely because it is in electronic form." This current docket contains many examples of documents that have been signed electronically or reproduced electronically including the Trustee's own attorney whose filings are shown to contain notation near the signature indicating that a document was signed "as authorized by email" by another person which is not even an allegation in this objection. Wells Fargo Bank and PNC Bank, two creditors who have made claims in this case, use electronic document storage and retrieval systems for their record keeping. Based on the argument set forth above, the Trustee's position does not have sufficient merit and the motion should be denied.
5. The Trustee has also moved to invalidate my claim because of its alleged tardiness. My loan was secured by a lien placed on real property held by the Metro Way Family Trust. I did not file a claim on or before the claims bar date of February 14, 2012, because my security interest was not part of the bankruptcy estate on February 14, 2012. My security interest was voided on March 21, 2012 [Docket #64, in 11-01954] but I do not understand how this could occur because the property at 773 Metro Way was not part of the bankruptcy estate on March 21, 2012. Metro Way Family Trust was not even named

1 as a defendant until March 8, 2012, which was after the claims bar date. I have never 2 understood what due process was in place protecting my rights because the Chapter 7
3 Trustee apparently served process to "773 Metro Way" in ZIP Code "96008" (Docket
4 #73) which is not the ZIP Code in which the subject property is located and it appeared 5 that the Chapter 7 Trustee was suing and serving an empty house which, needless to say, 6 would have a difficult time arguing for my case in Seattle, WA. After I learned that my 7 security interest was voided, I filed a claim. This was after the claims bar date, but in 8 order for me to have due process it must at least be possible for me to comply with the 9 timelines. In the interest of justice I therefore respectfully request that the claims bar date 10 be waived, since in this case, there was not a single day my lien was in the estate that was 11 not after the claims bar date. In the interest of justice and the lack of due process notice, 12 the Trustee's position does not have merit and the motion should be denied.

13 6. Based on the actions of which I have received notice, it seems that the Trustee does not 14 want to pay me ( and probably or any of the other small creditors) anything. The Trustee 15 and his attorney and his staff have consumed an enormous amount of the value in the 16 estate through expenses. I am a small creditor. Instead of paying 100% to the Trustee and 17 his attorneys, I urge the court from a sense of fairness to set a maximum cap on the 18 professional fees for the administration of a case so that, e.g., no more than 90% of the 19 assets in the estate are spent on the paid professionals. At least 20% should be set aside 20 for the small creditors to receive some compensation
